Coupeville Wharf Renovation Work

You may have noticed that exterior signs on the wharf building have been temporarily removed. That's because the Wharf building restoration work is re-starting.

Businesses are OPEN. It's a great time to support them!

Renovations include major upgrades: replacing the wood shiplap siding, installing weather resistive barrier and wall insulation. Work also includes replacing and restoring historic wood windows and doors.

We'll provide updates as the project progresses. Thanks for your understanding — and please visit local businesses.

Native Plant Sale

Orders Open Nov 1

Every winter, the Whidbey Island Conservation District purchases a large order of native, bare root plants to redistribute throughout our community.

Bare root plants are cost efficient because they are shipped without soil! They also have stronger root systems and benefit from being transplanted in the winter.

Pre-ordering begins Nov 1 and ends in early January, don't delay as many plants sell out. In-person pick up in March at Greenbank Farm. Get more info here:

Greenbank Farm Property Highlights

New Roof for Antique Tractor

The historic tractor at Greenbank Farm got a new metal roof. Thanks to Paul from our maintenance team for his craftsmanship.

Coming Soon!

The Farm Lights Festival will light up the historic tractor and the gardens at Greenbank Farm.

Greenbank Farm 120th Anniversary!

2024 marks the 120th anniversary of Greenbank Farm. Originally a dairy farm, the property has had many past vibrant lives!

One thing that hasn't changed is the welcoming place the Farm is to people of all ages. The Port of Coupeville is pleased to caretake this historic property for the community to enjoy – today and for future generations.

We'll be exploring the Farm's history in the coming months. Stay tuned!
